Description

The body and folded spout with a textured surface glazed in blue and natural tones, with a removeable lid and an arched carrying handle. Resting on three feet with shell-like decoration and the impressed 'RAT' maker's mark to the side.

England, contemporary.

Born in the foothills of the San Gabriel Mountains in California, with the sea to the west and desert to the east, such physical elements have served as the primary inspiration in Ruthanne Tudball's ceramics. She is one of the foremost contemporary potters in the UK, pioneering the soda glazing technique.
